

Blaylock Also Places Blame on Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commission Len Blaylock joined the fray over the financial crisis in the state Welfare Department Wednesday and agreed with Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller that much of the blame lay with the administration of former Gov. Orval Faubus.

"The state of the welfare spending represents either a most irresponsible administration or a vicious benevolence on the part of Gov. Faubus," he said.

"I can't see, I can't help but wonder, why somebody would take the money at hand and start this wild spending, not caring what effect it would have on the old people of Arkansas, the crippled people and the blind people and the dependent children when somebody else's administration came in, and this is the way I feel about it," he declared.

"I can't believe that anybody could be in (office) 12 years and account for state money that long, administration money, and claim that he didn't know this would happen."

"I don't think that he can say that we spent the money recklessly, because we have only carried on the programs he started in 1965-66 and 1967."

Blaylock said increases in welfare grants and raises in nursing home payments had drained the welfare budget. He said welfare costs had risen by only $3.6 million during 1964-65 and $4.2 million in 1965-66, but had surged up by $14.7 million during 1966-67, the year in which Rockefeller succeeded Faubus.

He said administrative costs had been "cut to the bone" since he took over as welfare commissioner early this year, "but the savings have not been enough."

He said he had instituted stringent economies in the use of welfare vehicles, travel and telephones, but that the sums were insignificant when compared to the massive grant, medical aid and other social programs, which cost more than $100 million a year.

A number of welfare recipients have been added to the rolls, primarily as a result of a relaxation of eligibility requirements, he said. One of the largest expenditures was for 8,000 nursing home patients in 191 nursing homes, he added.

Blaylock said the cost of that program had increased 39 percent during the last year, although the patient load had increased only six percent.

He said that could be traced to the fact that the state Welfare Board had approved an increase in monthly payments to the nursing home patients just before Faubus left office, plus the fact that the 1967 General Assembly had enacted legislation granting further increases.

Blaylock said he was looking to the Welfare Board to provide some leadership in the crisis, and said Chairman Eagle Street of Cave City had called a meeting for 1 p.m. Friday. He said he didn't know what Street had in mind, and Street was unavailable for comment.

The commissioner said he still hoped to work with the board, although it had ignored his warnings since May that the welfare budget could end up about $3.3 million short by the end of the current fiscal year.

"This figure appears to be standing up," Blaylock said. He said he thought the board had waived its authority under Faubus, noting that it had kept silent when the "tremendous increases in spending" were authorized.

He said official records showed that the board met in June 1965 and held no further meetings until February 1967, shortly after Rockefeller came into office.

Moss Claims There Was Enough Cash

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former state Welfare Commissioner A. J. "Red" Moss said Wednesday that when he left the office there still was enough money in the state welfare fund to grant an additional $5-a-month increase in welfare payments during fiscal 1967-68 and again in 1968-69.

His statement came in response to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's charge that political manipulations and fiscal irresponsibility on the part of the state Welfare Board, the administration of former Gov. Orval Faubus and the 1967 General Assembly had produced a financial crisis that would prevent him from granting the increases.

Rockefeller said Wednesday that Faubus and Moss had failed to tell him the welfare budget was headed for trouble. Moss, who stayed on as commissioner for a few months after Rockefeller succeeded Faubus, said this wasn't true as far as he was concerned.

"I made repeated efforts to contact Gov. Rockefeller through Mrs. (Marilyn) Bledsoe, the governor's secretary, to keep him advised on the program," Moss said. "During the time I worked for him, I was entirely loyal to him and to the welfare clients. I worked in his best interests."

The former director said that when he prepared the agency's budget for the 1967-69 biennium he fought for a $24 million guarantee.

He said Roger Line, a fiscal consultant to Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Associates, the accounting firm advising the governor and the state on a consultant basis, told him the guarantee would be cut to $21 million.

"I told them this wasn't enough to carry the program at anticipated levels," Moss said. "The governor would not accept my estimate, and the $21 million was written into the budget."

Moss said he no longer had any interest in state politics, but he offered to return briefly to advise the governor on the welfare program. He said he bore the governor no ill will because of his criticism.

"I'll be glad to help," he said. Moss said that while he was commissioner, he elicited a promise from the doctors of the state that they would donate their services to welfare recipients if the state ran short of funds. He said the hospitals also had promised to cooperate.

Hempstead County Association of Retarded Children will meet Thursday night at 7:30 in Municipal Courtroom at City Hall. Mrs. Elizabeth Alstadt, Little Rock, will be guest speaker. She is coordinator of the federal program Mental Retardation Planning under the auspices of the Arkansas State Department of Health.

Says Fulbright Did Complete Turnabout

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — That loud noise in the Senate is from the barn door that slammed when the horse trotted away.

In this case the barn door was the overwhelming approval given the President—in the Tonkin Gulf resolution of 1964—to use whatever force he thought necessary to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. The vote was 88 to 2.

The horse that got loose is the war in Vietnam. Now a horde of senators are unhappy about this dragged-out war which they authorized if President Johnson thought it necessary.

They could have had no doubt in 1964 that the resolution might lead the United States into war. That it could do just that was made clear to them by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the man who captained the measure through to approval.

He told them it could happen before they voted. But Fulbright, who has been all over the lot on how much power a president should have in foreign affairs, is now for curbing the power.

The Constitution has never given a president a completely free hand in the foreign field. But about the only real restriction it puts on him is this: Any treaty he makes with a foreign power must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate.

Dealing with the Senate this way was often painful. To make life easier for themselves presidents eventually began making executive agreements with other countries. They had the effect of treaties but didn't need a two-thirds Senate vote.

But when it came to using U.S. forces overseas for one reason or another, presidents often got congressional approval. Often they didn't. The armed forces have been used 137 times without a formal declaration of war and in most cases without any say by Congress.

Johnson didn't ask Congress for an okay when he sent troops into the Dominican Republic's revolution in 1965 but he did get congressional approval, through the Tonkin resolution, before using troops in Vietnam.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has proposed his own resolution which he wants it to approve. This one would say a "national commitment" to another country by a president must be approved by Congress as a treaty or in some other declaration.

But, as noted, Johnson asked precisely for such approval before the Vietnam war began. Yet, what is a "national commitment"? Those words are made of rubber. They could be used to apply to almost anything a president might undertake with a foreign power.

As the war began to seem bogged down, Fulbright and others who had approved the Tonkin resolution became uneasy and critical of Johnson. One of the most memorable complaints came from Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J.

Case, who voted for the Tonkin resolution, said Johnson had refused it because he "had taken advantage of the restraint and responsibility of Congress." He called this "highly irresponsible" on Johnson's part.

But from what he said next it wouldn't seem Congress showed much responsibility. Just the contrary. Case said "our consent to so sweeping a grant of power was not only a mistake but a failure of responsibility on the part of Congress."

Faubus Says He Wasn't Responsible

HUNTSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Former Gov. Orval Faubus denied Wednesday that his administration was in any way responsible for the current financial pinch in the state Welfare Department.

He said Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's attempts to blame it on him were "as phony as a $4 bill" and laid the blame at the Rockefeller administration's doorstep.

Part of the department's problem stems from spending more than it should without federal matching funds, he said, thereby depleting the state welfare fund.

"For example, they have increased the food stamp program and have tried every way possible to increase it still further," Faubus said.

He said the program was financed entirely with state funds, but that Rockefeller's administration was pushing it because employees of the program weren't covered by the Merit System.

"The new administration is free to hire whom they choose without being hampered in any way by the Merit System," Faubus said.

"In this program, the new administration has raised salaries, hired additional personnel and increased travel and other administrative costs," he said. "This has used up money that could have been used to match federal funds."

Rockefeller criticized Faubus and the state Welfare Board Tuesday for raising welfare grants by an average of $10 a month shortly before the former governor left office. He said this had made it impossible for him to grant the $5-a-month increase he had planned for fiscal 1967-68 and fiscal 1968-69.

"With proper management of state finances and the welfare fund, another $5 per month increase could have already been granted and put into effect this fiscal year," Faubus said.

He said that was because there had been a reserve fund to carry into this fiscal year, but that Rockefeller had wiped out the reserve when he reorganized state spending procedures.

"Either Red Moss (former Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss) or myself could straighten out the whole mess in two weeks if it were not for one fact," Faubus said. "We couldn't recover the some $8 million in state funds that have already been lost and the money that will continue to be lost under Act 113."

Act 113 of 1967 was a tax relief act for industry. Faubus charged several days ago that when Rockefeller signed it into law, he cost the state more than $8 million.

The state Revenue Department has indicated that the tax loss may be as high as $5 million, and Rockefeller said earlier this week that he wouldn't have signed the bill had he known how much money was involved.

State Rep. Gayle Winsdor of Little Rock and Frank Cantrell, executive vice president of the Associated Industries of Arkansas, have challenged both figures as being far too high.

Johnson, has proposed his own resolution which he wants it to approve. This one would say a "national commitment" to another country by a president must be approved by Congress as a treaty or in some other declaration.

But, as noted, Johnson asked precisely for such approval before the Vietnam war began. Yet, what is a "national commitment"? Those words are made of rubber. They could be used to apply to almost anything a president might undertake with a foreign power.

As the war began to seem bogged down, Fulbright and others who had approved the Tonkin resolution became uneasy and critical of Johnson. One of the most memorable complaints came from Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J.

Case, who voted for the Tonkin resolution, said Johnson had refused it because he "had taken advantage of the restraint and responsibility of Congress." He called this "highly irresponsible" on Johnson's part.

But from what he said next it wouldn't seem Congress showed much responsibility. Just the contrary. Case said "our consent to so sweeping a grant of power was not only a mistake but a failure of responsibility on the part of Congress."

This could be interpreted as meaning a self-conscious bunch of senators, ill at ease now for not paying attention to what they were doing, are blaming Johnson for it.

Interviewing seniors.

"Although many students feel that the war in Vietnam is wrong, people do not feel that suppression of certain types of speech is a suitable means of protest," commented Eden Weinmann, president of the sophomore class.

A majority of University of Texas students voting in a campus election expressed themselves as against an immediate ceasefire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

The university's 29,841 students cast ballots with 1,724 for halting the war and 2,916 against. Another 387 said they were uncertain.

A protest of a different nature took place at the predominantly Negro Central State University in Wilberforce, Ohio, where 200 students trapped President Harry Groves in his office for several hours.

They had gathered to show support for the school's nonteaching employees who are involved in a labor dispute with the university. The crowd dispersed before any police action was taken.

At Grambling College in Louisiana—another school with a predominantly Negro enrollment—a so-called "scholarship rebellion" continued over student charges the school emphasizes athletics at the expense of academics.

There were several other student demonstrations across the nation against the presence on campus of CIA or Navy recruiters or recruiters for Dow Chemical Co., producer of napalm.

hasn't got the message, namely that there will be no tax bill consideration until the administration shows some inclination to cut down spending."

At his news conference, Johnson restated his position that Congress should be doing the cutting.

"I think they will cut $4 or $5 billion out of the appropriations that we have recommended this year," he said. "I will sign those bills they send me, although I think some of them are close ones."

What hurts—in lost revenue, interest payments and inflation-fanned price rises—the President said, is inaction in the taxes-spending dispute.

"Now we are doing nothing," he said. "We are at a standstill."

When a reporter asked Johnson to comment on recent downturns in stock prices, Johnson again put the blame on Congress.

"I think when you have an uncertain future," he said, "you have uncertain markets and you have uncertain stock prices. Some of this uncertainty is being reflected in the market. I think it is being reflected in the bond market and in the interest rates."

"I think you are paying every day—more than you know, right this moment—for the inaction that is taking place and for the refusal of our people to stand up and take the action that responsibility requires."

Johnson also said he was "greatly distressed" at the heavy cuts Congress has made in some of the administration's programs such as model cities and rent subsidies.

"I am disappointed that the Congress has made the serious, drastic reduction it has in these already inadequate programs," he said.

Although Johnson didn't mention the plight of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the OEO announced Wednesday that because Congress hasn't acted on its appropriation 35 Community Action programs may soon have to be halted.

were in the southern panhandle that stretches south of Hanoi to the demilitarized zone.

For the second day in a row, U.S. fighter-bombers attacked a Communist surface-to-air missile site north of the DMZ. A forward air controller reported that three large explosions destroyed a Russian-made SAM, a transporter and a launcher following the strike by Air Force F4 Phantoms.

The report confirmed that the North Vietnamese apparently are renewing efforts to bring down SAMs in hopes of bagging one of the giant B52 bombers that frequently raid North Vietnamese fortifications along the frontier.

The U.S. raiders also claimed 71 barges and numerous trucks destroyed or damaged, along with 21 fortifications and other gun sites just north of the demilitarized zone.

U.S. headquarters also announced that the number of Americans killed in action last week in the Vietnam war dropped slightly while those of South Vietnamese and other allied forces climbed sharply.

The U.S. Command said 166 Americans were killed, 966 wounded and 14 missing or captured. During the previous week, 193 Americans were reported killed in combat, 949 wounded and seven missing.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said government losses last week were 220 men killed, 693 wounded and 41 missing. This was a big increase over the 81 dead, 355 wounded and two missing reported for the previous seven-day period.

Casualties of other allied forces were reported as 60 killed, 120 wounded and none missing last week, the highest weekly toll so far in the war for these forces.

Militants Hired, Riots Prevented

By JOHN CHADWICK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Houston antipoverty worker credits the hiring of Negro militants under a federally financed program with heading off a racial crisis in the Texas city last summer.

But the chairman of a Senate panel probing U.S. riots suggested such a move amounted to "paying off" dissatisfied Negroes just to obey the law.

The exchange came Wednesday as the Senate investigations subcommittee continued its Senate-ordered probe of the causes of Negro riots.

Samuel L. Price, a Negro and a deputy director of the Harris County Community Action Association, told the panel that the program—called Project Go—was paid for with $600,000 in federal funds—was organized in the month after a riot at Texas Southern University in Houston.

Officials from Texas Southern were to testify today.

Among those hired, said Price, were two men under indictment for the slaying of a policeman during the May 16 uprising at the state's largest Negro university.

Establishment of Project Go represented a policy decision by city and poverty officials "to actively involve the dissenters, the agitators, troublemakers, and the militants in constructive activities," he said, adding that such persons were among 691 persons hired and put to work on a variety of community jobs at $1.40 to $2 an hour.

"How did it work out?" asked Sen. Jacob K. Javits, I-N.Y. "Perfectly well," Price replied. "We gambled and won. Houston did not blow."

"You think the $600,000 spent contrived to peace and prevented further violence?" asked Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

"I know it did," said Price. Then McClellan asked the antipoverty worker if he advocated a national program of hiring Negro agitators, in effect "paying off" Negroes for not violating the law.

Price said he didn't. Then he added: "We are going to have to create a climate where these people can work and feel they are an integral part of society."

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE

Dear Helen: I am 18 and in the military service. I have a 19 year sister who lives at home with my mother. They write me separate letters each telling all the bad things the other pulls. They fight, boy, how they fight!

When I come home on leave, I'm in the middle of their arguments. Mom tells me how lazy my sister is, and all the bad names she calls her. My sister tries to get my sympathy with stories about bossing and unreasonableness.

I love both of them, and I do not want to take sides. I tell them I won't listen, but they keep making me the middle-man. What can I do?

---DISGUSTED

Dear Dis: Tell these fighting hens you aren't Solomon and the only solution you can suggest is--separation!

You might also point out that a Serviceman needs encouragement, not complaint and you won't answer letters filled with carping, not will you spend your precious leaves in this atmosphere.

Between flak on the battlefield and yak on the home front, I'd say you have a rough life, soldier. ---H.

The kid is practically a tycoon at age 10. And I hate to think of the day when her prices go up. ---GOING BROKE

Dear Broke: Why not start a "mutual assistance league," with your parents firm help!

Kids brought up to expect coins for every little favor soon get popular as a mousetrap in the cookie jar.

Your sister must learn that FAVORs are the best medium of exchange in family life. Money should be paid only when she is hired for an unusual "extra." ---H.

Dear Helen: You sure guessed it right when you figured "Johnney" was putting you on, with his bragging about his many dates all being pushovers. He's high on dreams. Or else he has a harem of real dogs that nobody else would want.

I'm a 17 year old male and would like to state that life is not like that. A guy has to really toe the line to keep a girl friend who is worth keeping. Sure, it isn't hard to get a date, but you have to be a gentleman, or you won't take her out the second time! ---DON

Dear Helen: When a teacher finds somebody passing a note in class, do you think it is right for him to take the note away and read it to the whole class? And then send it home to your parents? ---EXPOSED

Dear Ex: No. I think the teacher should tear up the note in front of the class--before anyone reads it. ---H.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Ordinary Brown Mole No Threat to Health

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q--What is the best treatment for congestion in the nostrils after having the flu? I have a continual postnasal drip.

A--Although upper respiratory infections are a common cause of a nasal congestion other factors, such as the normal spontaneous opening and closing or partial closing of alternate sides of the nose, must be considered. Such decongestants as Afrin, Otrivin and Privine (obtainable only on a doctor's prescription) all give temporary relief but when used too often or for too long they lose their effectiveness. When you are excited or keenly intent on what you are doing your breathing is improved, even when you have a cold. This makes it hard to evaluate the benefits of these decongestants.

Q--For the past two years I have had a red nose. I don't use alcohol or coffee. What causes it and what would you suggest for it?

A--The commonest cause of a red nose is cirrhosis of the liver. Although cirrhosis may be due to excessive use of alcohol this is by no means the only cause. A red nose may also occur as a hereditary trait or for no discoverable reason. I know of no treatment beyond a liberal application of face powder.

Q--What causes a person to have phlegm in the throat every morning? How can I get rid of it?

A--This is known as post-nasal drip and is caused by a chronic sinusitis or an allergy. If your doctor can discover the cause he should be able to prescribe an appropriate treatment.

Q--What causes moles? Is there anything that will remove them except surgery?

A--Even though they may not develop until late in life they are caused by a hereditary predisposition and almost everyone gets a few in time. The ordinary brown mole is no threat to your health and is best left alone. If you consider it unsightly you can cover it with a masking cosmetic.

Q--I have a large mole on my left cheek. Lately it has become sore and swollen. How do you tell whether it is malignant?

A--A malignant lesion has a stony hardness. Your doctor can usually tell whether a mole is cancerous and, if there is any doubt, it should be removed and examined under a microscope. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Warren Picked to Beat Hope

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
Texarkana and Springdale, co-leaders in the Class AAA Western Division, appear to be headed for a Nov. 10 showdown, but neither can afford to look past this week's opponent.

Texarkana, ranked No. 3 in the Associated Press Arkansas High School Football Poll, plays at Fort Smith Southside Friday night while Fourth-ranked Springdale is host to Hot Springs.

Texarkana and Springdale are both 2-0 in conference play. Both have lost one game. Fort Smith Northside defeated the Razorbacks 29-14 and the Bulldogs 14-7.

Southside dropped a 19-14 decision to Springdale last week and has a 4-3 record. Hot Springs is only 2-5 for the season, but passed Texarkana before losing 21-12.

Springdale's Steve Brown is the top scorer in Class AAA with 16 touchdowns. Texarkana's offense features tailback Mike Saint and quarterback Randy Hickerson.

Texarkana 14, Fort Smith Southside 7.
Springdale 17, Hot Springs 7.

Class AAA Rogers lost its season opener to Springdale, but has won seven straight since that time. Rogers goes to Fayetteville to meet the third place team in the Class AAA Western Division. Rogers appears to be trailing.

Rogers 19, Fayetteville 13.
Last week's percentage was a season high of .871.

Nebraska Is Leading in Total Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Nebraska is the latest to lead the nation's major-college football teams in total defense, it was disclosed today with the release of the defensive statistics.

The Cornhuskers, the fourth co-leader in the past six weeks, have yielded an average of 155.3 passing-yards per game in six games. Georgia is second with an average yield of 156.2 yards followed by Tulsa, last week's leader, with 169.0.

Syracuse has compiled the best defense against rushing, a mere 46.5 yard average for six games. Georgia has put together the best defense against forward passes, a 63-yard average for six games.

The University of Texas at El Paso shows the best punting mark, 44.1 yards encompassing 23 punts in five games. Houston and Louisiana State are tied for second with 43.8.

Oklahoma has been the toughest to score against, according to the figures compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services. The Sooners' five opponents have scored only 16 points for a 3.2 average.

Tigers to Play Host to DeQueen

By CHARLES JONES
Yerger Sports Writer

The Yerger Tigers will play host to the DeQueen Leopards in Hammons Stadium Thursday night, starting at 7:30.

Thursday game will be the last scheduled conference game of the season. The fans and Tigers will welcome William Muldrew back to the team. He's been out with injuries for four games, and it is doubtful if he'll play in Thursday night's game.

For those that will not be able to come to see the game, it will be broadcast over KXAR.

Johnny Bower Just Keeps Rolling Along

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

His hair is growing thinner, his hemistitched face looks more weatherbeaten, but like Ol' Man River, Johnny Bower just keeps rolling along.

Bower, one week away from his 43rd birthday, held off Montreal's high-speed Canadiens Wednesday night as Toronto blanked the Habs 5-0 in a National Hockey League game.

The veteran goalie kicked out 40 shots including 17 in the first period and registered his 32nd career shutout. Five different players scored for Toronto with three goals inside of five minutes midway through the second period snapping a scoreless tie.

In other NHL action Wednesday, expansionist St. Louis' rocketed Boston 5-1, Pittsburgh dropped Minnesota 4-1 and New York blanked California 2-0.

Ex-Bruin Ron Stewart led St. Louis past Boston with a pair of goals in the first period as the Blues scored their first victory over an established NHL team.

Glenn Hall kicked out 30 shots for St. Louis but lost his shutout in the final 2½ minutes when Ross Lonsberry beat him on a 30-footer.

Andy Bathgate scored his eighth goal of the year for Pittsburgh as the Penguins took over second place in the West Division by beating Minnesota.

The Rangers moved into sole possession of first place in the East Division, two points ahead of idle Detroit, in extending their unbeaten streak to eight at the expense of California.

Orland Kurtenbach and Rod Gilbert produced the New York goals in the third period while goalie Ed Giacomin turned in his first shutout of the season, handling 16 shots flawlessly.

Bobkittens Close Out With a Loss

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Failing to come back with enough second effort in the tight situations late in the game, the Hope Bobkittens ended their season on a losing note, falling before the Magnolia Panther Cubs 12-0 Tuesday night at Magnolia.

After a scoreless first half, the Kittens appeared to have a genuine drive going on their first possession of the third period, but three lost fumbles threw away the remaining opportunities as the Kittens just ran out of luck.

Magnolia scored in each of the last two quarters, one on a 4-yard run by fullback John Kirkpatrick and another on a 2-yard burst by tailback Steve Kincaid.

The TD's came on drives of 31 and 33 yards, respectively.

The loss wrapped up the season mark for the Bobkittens at 2-7, which does not in the least indicate what potentials and bright spots were brought forth during the year. Much experience also was gained by the 8th graders, who won a few games as the junior high "B" team.

The "B" team lost their final game of the year, though, to Magnolia 7-0 in a prelude to the Bobkitten game. Magnolia's score came on a seven-yard sweep by John Kincaid with 0:08 left in the game. This local team wound up with a 2-2-1 scorecard for 1967.

Bobcat Head Coach Freddie Glaze announced yesterday that all the participants in the grade-school football program will be the guests of the Athletic Department at the Warren game this Friday night, and will sit on the sideline.

Meanwhile, the Hope Bobcats continue to work out in preparation for Warren, and the team is showing a good attitude. The Cats should have no problems getting mentally ready for this one, being the last chance for the Cats to win another conference game.

With cooler weather comes basketball season, and the time is drawing nearer and nearer, and the Bobcats, with Coach Joe Austin, are beginning to make ready for their opener at Jones Field House with AAA El Dorado on December 1. Fans won't have to wait that long, though, because the Lady Cats open at home on November 16 with powerful Bradley, who presently is sporting a winning streak of between 60 and 70 games over a three-year period.

Remember the final 4-AA home game Friday evening, as the Bobcats host the Warren Lumberjacks at 7:30 p.m. in Hammons Stadium. Last year Hope won at Warren by 34-14.

Dear Brutus Captures Jump Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — "He hung in the air. I thought he was coming down and then he lifted up, and over I went."

That's how Russ Stewart described the National Horse Show high jumping record today.

With a crowd of about 7,000 on hand in Madison Square Garden, Dear Brutus, a brute of a high jumper, captured the Puissance (high jumping) Wednesday night in the open jumper test in the National.

Only last year, Dear Brutus cleared 7-1 to tie the National's high jumping mark.

Dear Brutus cleared his record height on the sixth jump-off. Only in My Cap, ridden by Rod Jenkins, still was in the running for the big jump. In My Cap did not make the final round.

In the international jumping, Great Britain, which had dominated the Washington, D.C., International Show last week, finally broke through and won the Mackay Memorial Trophy for international horses. Marion Coakes, riding Strother, captured the test.

Blanchard, a three-time All-America at fullback and winner of the Heisman and Sullivan Trophies in 1945, will join the 388th Tactical Fighter Wing at Korat Air Base in Thailand on Feb. 25, 1968.

Minor, who played halfback, will join the 460th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing at Tonson Shout Air Base in South Vietnam on Dec. 13. Both men are lieutenant colonels and will fly F-105 fighter planes.

Broyles Has Very Few Compliments

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The only compliments Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles passed out Wednesday went to quarterbacks Ronny South and Gordon Norwood.

He praised them for their passing, as he had Tuesday, but he was practically raging about the over-all practice.

"It was one of the poorest defensive practices we've had in a long time, and the offense wasn't much better, Broyles declared. "We couldn't put our finger on what was wrong, but there wasn't any pep, and we had too much standing around."

Skies were cloudy and temperatures were in the 30s, but Broyles said that shouldn't have affected the drills.

"We had bad weather yesterday and had a good practice, so we can't blame the weather," he said. "This is good football weather."

San Diego Is Still Best Small College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The unbeaten Fairmont, W. Va. State Falcons held the key to Waynesburg's most immediate prospect of overtaking San Diego State, season-long leader in the weekly Associated Press small-college football poll.

An impressive victory by Waynesburg over Fairmont this Saturday will likely enable the Yellow Jackets to gain ground on or, perhaps, overhaul the Aztecs, who are not scheduled.

Waynesburg has steamrolled through seven opponents in an undefeated campaign. Fairmont has won six in a row. They have played one common opponent, West Virginia Wesleyan, and Fairmont rolled up a more impressive winning score. The Falcons beat W. Va. Wesleyan 43-0 on Oct. 7 and the Yellow Jackets beat the same team, 42-0, last Saturday.

San Diego State accumulated 19 points more than Waynesburg in the latest vote by a national panel of 16 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Aztecs had seven votes for first-place and 152 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc. Waynesburg was named the top team on five ballots and drew 133 points.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. San Diego St. (7) 152
2. Waynesburg (5) 133
3. North Dakota St. (4) 116
4. Eastern Kentucky 54
5. Texas-Arlington 46
6. Lamar Tech 46
7. N. Mexico Highlands 39
8. Southwest Tex. St. (2) 33
9. New Louisiana 28
10. Northern Michigan (1) 25

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana beat New Jersey 123-113 and Pittsburgh outlasted Denver 112-103 in overtime.

Lennie Wilkens and Joe Caldwell led the St. Louis scorers with 24 points while Jerry Lucas accounted for one-third of the Cincinnati scoring with 32 points.

The Warriors won their sixth game in a row, breaking the game open in the fourth quarter with eight straight points when the score was tied 100-100. Jim King of San Francisco and Dave Bing of the Pistons each had 32 points.

The 76ers threw in 20 straight points in a 4½-minute span in the second period en route to their sixth victory against one defeat. Hal Greer had 27 points for Philadelphia while Walt Chamberlain contributed 19 points, 22 rebounds and 13 assists.

Willis Reed hit a career high of 53 points—also tops by an individual in the league this season—in triggering New York's victory over Los Angeles, snapping a six-game Knicks losing streak.

San Diego bolted to a 10-0 lead over Seattle at the outset and never was headed in the game involving expansion teams. John Block's 31 points sparked the Rockets, who broke a six-game losing skid. Al Tucker led the Sonics with 23.

In the National Basketball Association, Detroit beat Cincinnati 101-97, San Francisco downed Detroit 135-132, Philadelphia triumphed Baltimore 130-126.

245-pound defensive end while Texan Caffey is a 240-pound terror backing up the line. Both are five-year veterans in the NFL.

Colts Could Have Been Looking Ahead

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Baltimore Colts were looking past Washington last Sunday and building up a head of steam for Green Bay, they couldn't be blamed.

The Colts have lost five in a row to the Packers since 1964 when they dumped Vince Lombardi's men twice and won the title in the West.

Green Bay won 26-17 on two interceptions by Herb Adderley and a recovered fumble and rolled up a 42-27 margin on Paul Hornung's big five-touchdown day to win both regular season games in 1965.

When the two teams wound up the '65 season in a tie for the Western Conference title, quarterback Bart Starr was hurt on the first Green Bay scrimmage play but the Packers won it 13-10 in 13:39 of sudden death overtime on Don Chandler's second field goal.

There was a bitter controversy surrounding the first field goal that tied the score and Baltimore still maintains it was not good.

With that background of defeat, the Colts were sky high for their first meeting in 1966 only to lose 24-3 when Bob Jeter and Lee Roy Caffey turned intercepted passes against Johnny Unitas into first-half touchdowns.

The last meeting of the two clubs came on a Saturday afternoon in mid-December last season. Once again it was Zek Bratkowski doing the job after Starr was injured, and the Packers won 14-10, while Jeter saved the day with a piling tackle that forced Unitas to fumble on the Green Bay nine with a minute to play.

And next Sunday?

The Packers are coming off a tough game Monday night at St. Louis with Lionel Aldridge, defensive end, a questionable starter after suffering an ankle injury.

Baltimore is without one half of its pitch-and-catch battery because Raymond Berry is shelved indefinitely with a shoulder separation, but Jimmy Orr, who since the first game with a shoulder separation, and Ray Perkins, who has missed two games and most of a third because of a sore leg, both are expected to return to help out Willie Richardson, John Mackey and Alex Hawkins.

Joe Don Looney is reported back home in Texas after being waived out of the National Football League by Washington. Joe Don has been making the rounds from New York to Baltimore to Detroit to Washington and now back home. The Redskins are expected to pick up Chuck Mercein, cut by the New York Giants.

Didn't Mind Moving Over for Brown

By HAL ROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brash Dave Grayson didn't mind moving over to make room in Oakland's defensive backfield for flashy Willie Brown, but when Brown got hurt, Grayson showed he hadn't forgotten how to do his old job.

Grayson intercepted three passes and shared in the bulk of his 11 tackles after moving from free safety to cornerback at halftime in Oakland's 51-10 victory over San Diego last week. He was named the American Football League's Defensive Player of the Week today by The Associated Press.

A regular cornerback for the Raiders the last two seasons, Grayson switched to free safety last year as Brown moved into his old spot. And he was enjoying the switch.

"When I got more nerve," he said, "I'll go for more passes. There's more action at free safety. You get a chance to tackle more. Stick your head in there."

Instead of his head, Grayson stuck his hands in there against San Diego quarterback John Ball. The three interceptions in one half matched his total number of steals in each of the last two seasons.

Initially, Grayson felt the switch to free safety would give him a better shot at intercepting, but it was at Brown's cornerback slot that he caught Ball's passes.

"I love playing free safety," said Grayson. "You're in on everything. At cornerback, you're played and sometimes if you're in a jam, your coverage isn't as good as it is off the line and that's it."

"At free safety, you're not always responsible for one man and you have a better opportunity to make a play."

Barney Hasn't Been Burned But Is Leary

DETROIT (AP) — Lem Barney, the Detroit Lions' rookie cornerback, knocked on wood with one of his quick hands and said: "I'm superstitious. I haven't been burned yet and I hope it doesn't happen."

Burned is the professional football cornerbacks' word for giving up a touchdown pass.

It's extremely rare for a rookie not to get burned, especially in the National Football League. Barney, a rookie from Jackson, Miss., State not only hasn't been burned but he is tied with New Orleans' Dave Whitsett for the league lead with six pass interceptions. He has returned two of them for touchdowns.

The NFL career record for touchdowns on pass interceptions is six, held by Green Bay's Herb Adderly.

Lions' Coach Joe Schmidt, a rookie himself, thought Barney had good potential when he showed up at preseason camp but said the flashy speedster's chances of making the first string were "pretty slight. That's one of the most difficult spots in football to play," added Schmidt. "It takes time to learn, a little longer than the other positions. There aren't too many that come in in their first year and play it."

Barney has done it and held on to the job for seven games.

He isn't the flamboyant type of cornerback like one of his predecessors on the Lions, Dick (Night Train) Lane, who, as a rookie, set the NFL single season record of 14 interceptions.

Opposing pass receivers and rival benches ride Barney with the traditional jibes directed at rookies, but, unlike Lane, he doesn't respond.

"I just try to do the same thing" on each play, says Barney. "If you get too many things on your mind it's not good."

Barney got the supreme compliment from San Francisco's Dave Parks when Detroit walloped the 49ers 45-3 last Sunday. Parks yelled "nice coverage" when Barney kept Parks from grabbing a pass. But Barney just goes about his job without commenting.

Sorry, but Princess Grace (nee Kelly) couldn't make it. But, that's O.K., too, because Bob Taylor brought his bride along and any girl watcher on the beach will tell you that when Ursula (nee Thiess) Taylor walks by in a bathing suit, you'd never guess she's got a 24-year-old son.

The raison d'être for this mad modish party is the final round in the 1967 Winchester Claybird Tournament. Five teams from the United States and Canada tumbled off an airplane, hot to shoot for the grand championship in the skeet and trap tournament. They're an interesting mixed bag, indicative of the widespread appeal of claybird shooting.

The average shooter here is a guy in his 30s, but there are some notable exceptions. Take California's team—they're average types, plus a 29-year-old housewife who just might make the cover of Cosmopolitan, if she tried, and a 12-year-old boy who has to be the biggest hero in the Encinitas School District. The lad is Chris Clark and the Class 5 shooter for the West Region champions. To make it even more interesting, his dad, Dr. Charles Clark, is the Class 3 shooter on the team.

But busting clay pigeons is only part of the program. A gurgling of outdoor writers from all over the continent is here, and over the tops of their G-and-Ts they eye the dazzling ocean and think hard and long about the next morning when they can be out on the bonefish flats or trolling for dolphin in the deep.

Everybody's caught up in the sporting fever. Even Prince Rainier is going to strap on a scuba rig and swim around the reef. It's going to be an interesting week.

SPORTS SHORTS

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Jockey Jorge Velasquez rode five winners at Garden State Park Wednesday including both ends of a $144.00 daily double.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A spokesman for the Kansas City Chiefs' Wednesday said Sunday's game at Municipal Stadium between the Chiefs and the New York Jets is a complete sellout, indicating a crowd of more than 46,365.

Altitude May Add Time to Swimmers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Tests by two Albuquerque physicians on top American swimmers show that Mexico City's 7,300-foot elevation could add time—one to two seconds per 100 meters—to their performances in the 1968 Olympic Games.

Dr. Roy Goddard of the Lovelace Foundation and Dr. Francis McGill of the University of New Mexico, who made extensive studies on effects of altitude on swimming performances, say that their predictions are nearly paralleled by performances by U.S. swimmers in last month's Pre-Olympics in the Mexican capital.

Goddard believes there should be extended conditioning at altitudes similar to Mexico City before swimmers compete there. Foddard and McGill, who did the studies under a national grant, will recommend to swimming coaches that the U.S. team receive such conditioning before going to Mexico City next summer.

Golfers Are Off to Mexico

MANILA (AP) — Filipino golfers Ben Arda and Celestino Tugot, both veterans of Canada Cup play and the Far East open circuit, are scheduled to leave Monday for Mexico City to compete in the 15th annual International Golf Championship and World Cup Tournament Nov. 9-12.

Date Set for Haig Scotch Foursome

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — The $110,000 Haig Scotch Foursome is set for Nov. 16-19 at the La Costa Country Club, sponsor Harold "Sunny" Renfield said today.

Renfield reaffirmed the date after reports the 72-hole event might be endangered by cancellation of the Dean Martin Golf Party originally scheduled in Los Angeles Nov. 9-10.

Seventy-two teams are to compete in the Haig, which will be preceded by an 18-hole program for a $5,000 purse Nov. 14.

HAND-HELD JET gun for maneuvering in space has been redesigned for U.S. spacemen who leave their space capsule. This new Rocket Research maneuvering unit is completely self-contained, with fuel attached to the handle, and lasts six times as long as previous models.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

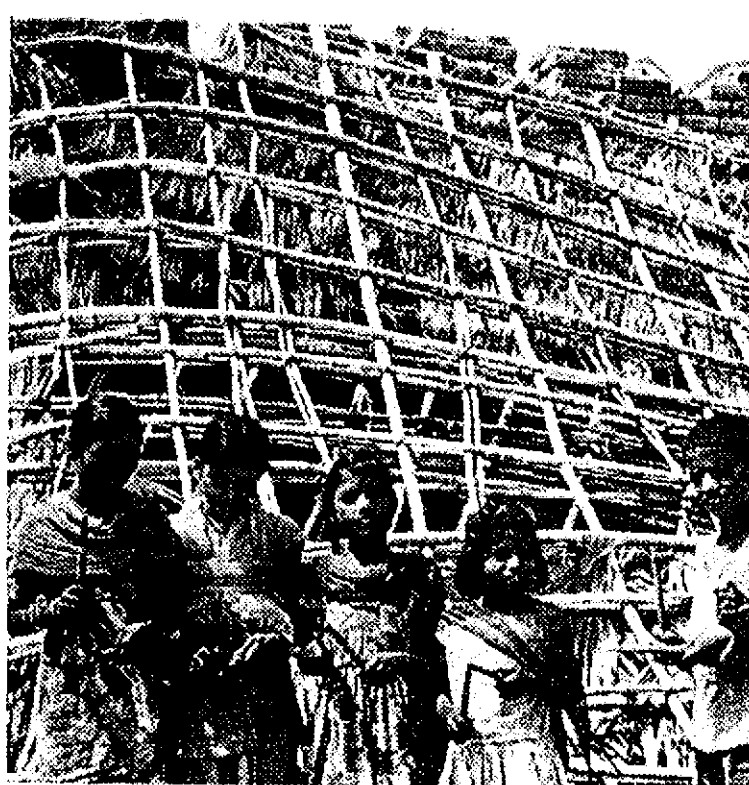

The World Almanac notes that in 1906 President Theodore Roosevelt gave a new meaning to the word "muckraker." The practice of "muckraking" said the president is nothing more than the deplorable habit of making sweeping and unjust charges of corruption against public officials and corporations alike.

Our sincere appreciation to those who helped during the illness, and loss of our grandmother, Mrs. Cora J. Jollett, The Bob Jacksons.

Singing

not for their supper, which is supplied by CARE, but for their schoolhouse roof is the self-help project of children in the Indian village of Gurhi. Five times in the past five years, bamboo and thatch roofs of the school have been torn off by storms. To earn enough money for a permanent tile roof, the children go from house to house after school once or twice a week, singing improvised songs about their need for a good roof so that bad weather cannot interrupt their studies.

Ten-year-old Upender Mandal, right, a third-grader and oldest in the group leads the singing to replace the shattered school roof, visible in background. He sings a line and the others respond in unison, all keeping a snappy beat with pairs of sticks.

The greatest value of a part score is its effect on your opponents. With 60 on score you can bid to two hearts or two spades and put tremendous pressure on the enemy. Most of the time they should pass and let you go out, but rubber bridge players aren't built that way and are very likely to compete.

South was one of those gallant defenders. He knew that the roof was likely to fall in on him if he bid, but he wasn't going to give up a rubber when he could defend. His two no-trump call was an effort to get his partner to try a minor suit. North passed. East doubled and South ran out to three clubs. East doubled this also, but South decided he had found his best spot and passed.

West opened the eight of diamonds. Dummy and East played low and South won with the nine. He cashed dummy's ace and king of clubs and led the queen of diamonds. East took his ace played his king and queen of spades and led the jack of clubs. South took his queen and made the brilliant play of his last spade. West led a heart to his partner's ace. East drew the last trump and led back a heart, but South made the last three tricks with dummy's king of hearts and his king ten of diamonds. East was the first to speak. "Why did I cash my second spade? If I had only held it back, I would have set South 700 instead of 300."

East's analysis was correct. He had let South escape with only a small loss but East had no cause to be unduly disturbed. South's 300 point save was a cheap one, but it wasn't any great bargain because East and West still had their 60 point part score to worry North and South on the next hand.

HOW DO YOU PRACTICE for moon landings? One answer may be this Lunar Landing Training Vehicle, built as a wingless, free-flying simulator of the module that may ferry spacemen from an orbiting space capsule to the lunar surface. A 4,200-pound thrust turbofan engine lifts five-sixths of the vehicle's weight for training purposes, and the remaining one-sixth gravity is comparable to gravity on the moon. Astronauts seated in the cockpit at left, therefore, can maneuver in a moonlike situation by controlling two small rocket engines.

Minnesotan Has Trouble War Job

By JOHN LENDEL
Associated Press Writer
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The job of commanding the U.S. war effort in the toughest part of South Vietnam is in the hands of a Minnesotan who survived Guam and Iwo Jima.

Lt. Gen. Robert Everton Cushman Jr., U.S. Marine Corps, stepped into the shoes of Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, a man who impressed bystanders as a rough and ready Marine. Cushman is better known as an organizer, marshaler of facts, contributor to tactical theory.

Besides being chief of U.S. forces in the five northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone, Cushman is senior adviser to Vietnamese commanders and director of the U.S. side of the pacification program.

Since assuming command May 31 he has presided over the steady expansion of the Marines' civic action missions and the infusion of additional U.S. Army units into his command, all part of a design drawn up before Walt was called back to the Pentagon.

"I figure I get paid for thinking and trying to keep ahead of the enemy, getting out into the areas to see how the fight is going," Cushman says.

"The divisions themselves are all hung up in administration and logistics as well as fighting. They don't have time to think too far ahead."

Most of the thinking comes after a full day of briefings and planning sessions. At about 8 p.m. Cushman is usually alone in his modest corner office in a refurbished French army compound along the Da Nang River. He's there until midnight, occasionally poking out in the anteroom in his stocking feet to ask an aide to rustle up more facts or a snack.

He relishes trips to the field—"You don't get the heat and the mud in the briefing room"—or trying his hand on the stick of his Huey helicopter.

Inside an artillery control bunker he told some surprised, uneasy privates: "Go on with your job. Don't interrupt the war for me."

At Con Thien, Cpl. Richie Costa, Plymouth, Mass., seeing Cushman for the first time, said, "He looks kinda old. I guess this war makes everybody look old, though."

Two Lafayette Men Killed

LEWISVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Robert R. White, 50, of Lewisville and Curt Gilbert, 52, of Stamps were killed Tuesday in a two-car collision on Arkansas 82 just outside the Lewisville city limits.

State Police said White apparently lost control of his eastbound vehicle and it collided with a car driven by Larry Cobb, 26, of Monroe, La.

She Wasn't Ashamed to Cry

WICHITA (AP) — "I started bawling like a big kid and told him I won't get into the car. If you're going to kill me, kill me here," Mrs. Mollie C. Black, a liquor store clerk, related Tuesday in describing how she dissuaded a bandit from kidnapping her.

The armed bandit robbed Mrs. Black, operator of a liquor store, of about $100 and two billfolds but relented from kidnapping her when she broke into tears.

She said he threatened to kill her a dozen times and told her to get in his car.

Mrs. Black said the bandit finally shoved her inside a rest room and fled.

Some straight talk about milk that is important to mothers

No one has to tell you how important milk is to a child's diet. Or that the best milk is none too good for him.

PROBLEM: With so many brands to choose from, how do you tell which milk is freshest and provides the most nourishment?

SOLUTION: Buy the milk that far exceeds government requirements and goes even further to meet its own higher standards of quality and taste.

FACT: The Borden Company has spent more than 100 years building its reputation for milk that is always better than it has to be.

Borden's quality control starts at the dairy farm and follows the milk all the way to your home or to the store. It takes 23 separate quality tests for purity, flavor and freshness to tell us we couldn't do better!

This extra care sometimes causes Borden's to cost a little more than some brands. But if we did anything less, we couldn't keep this promise.

Good Streets Have to Start Sometime, and Right Time's Tuesday

(First of a series)

Next Tuesday, Nov. 7, the voters of Hope will go to the polls to approve or reject a $765,000 city paving project.

The Star favors the project and thinks you should vote for the supporting bond issues next Tuesday. For legal reasons the proposed bond total of $765,000 is divided into three issues, therefore you will have to mark your ballot three times. But don't let this confuse you. Either vote FOR all three issues or AGAINST all three.

Because, there's just one question before Hope citizens next Tuesday: Do you want your city streets improved? If you do you will vote YES. It is your privilege, of course, to vote NO—but a NO vote will silence any complaint you may feel about the condition of Hope's streets.

No proposal offered all the people is ever perfect. This is the City of Hope's second attempt to launch a street-improvement program. Your editor helped scuttle the first one because it included a so-called federal grant. Next Tuesday's proposal eliminates the federal grant and puts up to the people a 100 per cent local-money issue with 100 per cent local control. We don't see how the community can lose, and we urge that you vote YES overwhelmingly.

No initial project ever is perfect. When the current proposal was first announced it drew almost unanimous support. Then the official map was published showing that the city would start with a system of arterial through-streets running north-south and east-west—and immediately the complaint arose: "But they won't pave the street on which I live."

But somewhere, sometime, you have to make a start. You have only to remember how our state highway system was built to realize that the city's approach to its street problem is realistic.

Arkansas did not get its network of highways all at once. It began with construction of arterial roads—the trunk lines. Then it connected up all the county-seat towns. And finally it got around to building farm-to-market roads.

There were plenty of objections at the beginning of Arkansas' good-roads program. Had we listened to them we never would have gotten started. But we did make a start—and now, years later, it has worked out satisfactorily.

That's the real issue next Tuesday.
Do we start—or don't we?

Six Fined on Liquor Charges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Six persons identified as employees of private clubs raided here Sept. 24 were fined $110.50 each Wednesday for selling whisky without a license.

The six also were charged with selling liquor without a retail permit, but Municipal Judge Quinn Glover passed the charges on grounds that he couldn't find a penalty in the city ordinance covering the offense.

Police arrested them after entering the clubs disguised as Arkansas Razorback football fans and obtaining mixed drinks without benefit of membership cards.

The six are James R. Long, 42, former manager of the Industrial Park Businessmen's Club, Inc., which burned recently; James B. Walters, manager of Admiral Jimbo's University Club; Frank Hugh Wittington, 47, manager of the Petroleum Club; and Anita Alberta Mitchell, 24; Jesse D. Jones, 44, and Blake William Spires, 36, who worked in the various clubs. All are of Little Rock.

Man Involved in Wreck Charged

E.L. DURADO, Ark. (AP)—Matthew Turner, 19, of Junction City, driver of a vehicle involved in a two-car collision that killed two persons Friday, was charged with involuntary manslaughter here Wednesday.

Turner and seven others were injured in the wreck, which occurred on U.S. 167 about three miles north of Junction City.

Leon Turner, 20, a passenger in his brother's car, was killed, as was Mrs. Bettie Sue Carter, 41, of Junction City, a passenger in the other vehicle.

Bingen Man Missing on Millwood

A north Hempstead County man failed to return last night from a fishing trip at Millwood lake and search is on to find him.

Sheriff Jimmie Griffin said the man is E. T. Langley, about 60, of Bingen.

The Sheriff said Langley obtained a boat and motor at the Saratoga landing yesterday but failed to return by dark. Officers, Engineers and others searched late in the night for him and returned early this morning.

The Sheriff said a plane will fly over the lake sometime today in an effort to spot the boat.

SS Hike Passed by Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted Thursday for a $6.1-billion increase in Social Security payroll taxes to pay for higher benefits it has inserted into an omnibus Social Security bill.

If enacted, it would mean that an individual earning $8,800 or more would pay $440 in Social Security taxes next year, as compared with $290.40 for 1967.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., told reporters the panel had decided on a combined rate and wage base boosts which would bring in $35 billion in taxes in 1968 compared with $28.9 billion this year.

The new rate, he said, would be 5 per cent each on the employer and employee and the new wage bases, on which the tax may be applied, would be $8,800.

Long emphasized that these are not yet final. The committee will take another look at them Friday, he said, adding that he expected it to finish its work on the legislation at that time.

Under present law, the current rate is 4.4 per cent and the pay base is $6,600. The House has voted to leave the rate at the same level next year but boost the base to $7,600.

The panel did not change Thursday the basic increase in Social Security benefits it agreed to Wednesday—a 15 per cent across-the-board hike and a $70 minimum monthly payment.

In Teenagers Home There's No Cobwebs or Dust on Telephone

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

One of the nice things about having a teenager in the home is that you never have to bother about wiping cobwebs or dust off the telephone.

Nothing looks happier than a small fat girl who has finally mastered the difficult art of keeping a hula hoop in motion around her chubby body.

It is time to leave a cocktail party when the guests begin to cluster and talk in authoritative tones about what should be done in Vietnam and which Republican should be nominated for president in 1968.

Bluebirds have become so scarce lately that they should put a few in zoo aviaries so children won't grow up without ever having seen one of the loveliest of nature's feathered creatures.

After 60, a fellow always feels like crying inside when someone sends him one of those "funny" birthday cards. He regards himself as a living landmark and expects respect from others, not cleverness, on his anniversaries.

It makes me sad to see a man who not only wears a toupee but also has an artificial flower pinned in his lapel. You have to give him credit for hope, but you can't escape the conviction he's a bit out of touch with reality.

On the other hand, whenever you see a man walking majestically in front of his wife as she pushes a shopping cart through the supermarket, you get a conviction that the American male still has a future.

Position of LBJ to Be Presented

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg promised today to "persevere with all the resources at my command" to get the U.N. Security Council to "carry out its clear responsibilities under the charter with respect to Vietnam."

But the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations also told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that a recent canvass of the Security Council showed a general unwillingness to try to initiate peace efforts.

Goldberg said adoption of a proposed Senate resolution aimed at obtaining U.N. action would nevertheless support his.

The ambassador cited several instances in which North Vietnam, the National Liberation Front and Red China have refused to recognize the right of the United Nations to act.

Goldberg appeared at a final hearing of the committee on the resolution, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. The measure has the support of 56 senators.

Goldberg concentrated on the Mansfield resolution, and made only one brief reference to a proposal of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., under which the United States would agree in advance to accept any U.N. mandates designed to bring peace in Vietnam. The Mansfield proposal would only call on President Johnson to consider directing Goldberg to press for action.

Indications are the committee will approve Mansfield's approach and send it to the Senate for a vote.

A second U.N.-Vietnam resolution, sponsored by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., contains a highly controversial feature that makes committee approval unlikely. It urges Johnson to commit himself in advance to any mandate the world organization issued on the war.

Critics of the Morse resolution have said the first such mandate probably would be a directive to halt U.S. bombing of North Vietnam without ordering a corresponding slowdown in the North Vietnamese war effort.

The Foreign Relations Committee was reported in sharp disagreement meanwhile on a proposed declaration asserting a greater role for Congress in committing U.S. forces to the defense of other nations.

Its sponsor committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said after an indecisive meeting Wednesday that some members were concerned the resolution would be interpreted as a rebuke to Johnson on the Vietnam issue.

Fulbright has said he is not relating the commitment resolution to Vietnam and would apply it only to the future.

Hard to Get in as to Get Out

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A Corbin, Ky., man is finding it just as hard to get into the state penitentiary at Edinville as 1,125 prisoners find it hard to get out.

Marion F. Cupp went all the way to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt in his effort to be locked up at Edinville "for the rest of my days." The request was turned down.

Cupp wrote in a letter to Breathitt, "I wish to be sentenced to or confined in the state penitentiary, so that I can be a spiritual adviser to prisoners, so that I can help them and encourage them to read their Bibles."

LBJ Accuses Congress of Inaction

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, accusing Congress of "taking the inaction route," says its refusal to approve his proposed income tax hike already is costing Americans by feeding inflation.

At a hurriedly called news conference Wednesday in the White House Cabinet Room, Johnson touched on topics ranging from Vietnam to the stock market but time and again came back to the theme that things are not going his way in Congress.

Later, this prompted Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-Id., to suggest the President should look to his own party. With a heavy majority in both House and Senate, "the Democrats must take the blame or credit for what is done or not done," Mundt said.

Asked about his high-priority request for a tax increase, the President said he is still plugging for it, but that its fate rests with the House Ways and Means Committee.

"We think that it will cost the American people much less by taking the tax route that we have suggested than by taking the inaction route that is now being followed," he said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield responded to the prodding by pledging "we'll do our best to give him what he wants."

Mansfield said he agrees with the President that Congress should stay in session until it passes a tax-increase bill.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee declined comment on the President's remarks but the House Republican whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, predicted flatly that for this year, at least, "there will be no tax bill."

And Rep. John H. Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, added: "The President just See LBJ ACCUSES On Page 2

Fordyce Man Is Missing

FORDYCE, Ark. (AP)—There still had been no trace this morning of Fred D. "Wayne" Stuard, 26, of Fordyce, a hardware salesman who had been missing since Monday, 3

Authorities said Stuard was last seen about 12:30 p.m. Monday when he told Buster Garlington, manager of a Fordyce hardware store, that he was going to make a business call in Warren.

A search began when he failed to return home on schedule. Warren authorities said he hadn't contacted any of his customers there.

Stuard, employed by a Memphis wholesale firm, moved here with his wife and son, now 7½ months old, last February. The 5-foot-10, 160-pound Stuard has brown hair and blue eyes. He was driving a yellow, 1966 Chevrolet.

The ground work of the 1967 Campaign has been going on for many months now, and with the announcement of the County Christmas Seal Chairman the committee is ready to move into full swing on this year's campaign.

In accepting this position, Mr. Jones stated: "I am proud to serve my County in the position of Christmas Seal Chairman. The need to combat Tuberculosis is still great, with 4,441 known cases in Arkansas alone. Our State ranks seventh highest in the continent 48 states in death rate from Tuberculosis. This is certainly not a 'vanishing' disease. I will gladly do my share, and hope that our County will exceed all previous year's Campaign totals."

When you receive your Christmas Seals, remember that since 1907 your Christmas Seal Organization has served as an independent, voluntary association whose sole support is derived from your contributions. Along with the battle against TB, they now work to combat respiratory diseases . . . emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma, and others as well.

Indictments in Murder of Rich Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—Indictments charging murder and rape have been filed against two men in the deaths of an 18-year-old girl, member of a rich Greenwich, Conn., family, and her hippie boyfriend during an LSD party in the East Village.

The Manhattan grand jury indictments were handed up Wednesday against Donald Ramsey and Thomas Dennis, 26-year-old Negroes.

The victims, both white, were Linda Fitzpatrick and James Hutchinson, 21, who was known as "Groovy" in the East Village hippie colony where he was a chieftain of sorts.

In addition to the murder charges, Ramsey and Dennis are accused of raping Miss Fitzpatrick. The two men have been held without bail since their arrest shortly after the bludgeoned bodies of Miss Fitzpatrick and Hutchinson were found in a tenement house basement Oct. 8 by Fred Wright, 31, assistant superintendent of the building.

A separate indictment handed up Wednesday charged Wright and Ramsey with raping a 22-year-old woman in the same building just before the murders. Wright has been held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Americans Beat Off Red Attacks

By GEORGE ESTER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—Viet Cong troops tried and failed again in a massive attack today to capture Loc Ninh, a district headquarters town they first struck last Sunday. U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers, artillery and planes hurled them back.

Field dispatches said 463 Communists were killed in this fourth drive of the week on Loc Ninh, near the Cambodian frontier 72 miles north of Saigon.

If confirmed, the new casualty figure would push the total enemy dead through the running battle in that sector to 832.

Spokesmen reported the allied losses through the week totaled 35 dead and 106 wounded.

In the latest battle, the allies sent the Communists reeling with firepower including six 105mm howitzers, Air Force tactical fighter-bombers, eight-engined B52 saturation bombers and twin-engine C47s armed with rapid-firing Gatling guns.

The fighter-bombers hit Communist positions with 72 strikes while the C47s fired 28,000 rounds of ammunition. B52s flew their third strike in two days on the Communist positions.

American troops suffered one dead and 11 wounded in the latest fighting. South Vietnamese casualties were put at five dead and 10 wounded. Total allied casualties reported for the five-day battle are eight American dead and 32 wounded and 23 South Vietnamese killed and 74 wounded.

Allied troops also reported capturing four prisoners of war from the Viet Cong's 273rd Regiment and 24 weapons, including three new Soviet-designed RFG7 rocket launchers and two flamethrowers.

New Cold Front Is Coming

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new cold front should shove its way into Northwest Arkansas Friday and advance southward through the State Friday night and Saturday.

Showers are expected to develop ahead, along and behind the front, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today.

Increased cloudiness will begin in Northwest Arkansas tonight and spread over the state Friday and Friday night.

Freezing temperatures are likely over most of Arkansas Saturday night and the cold spell is expected to continue through the early part of next week.

High temperatures over the state Wednesday ranged from 47 at Harrison to 65 at Blytheville. Overnight lows ranged from 31 at Gilbert to 50 at Walnut Ridge.

Resignation of Bishop Accepted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Wednesday that he hoped the resignation of state Prison Supt. E. Bishop would open the door for another trained penologist in the state prison system. He said he knew of one penologist who now was teaching at one of the state colleges, but declined to identify him. He said the person might not be interested.

He apparently referred to Dr. Waddo Dahlstedt, 49, of Arkadelphia, who is an instructor of sociology and criminology at Henderson State College.

Appointment of a successor to Bishop actually is up to the state Penitentiary Board, but Rockefeller is expected to submit a recommendation.

While it's possible that he might recommend Thomas O. Murton for the top job, he said Wednesday that he would hate to "see anything involving a turnover" that would hurt the normal operation of Tucker Prison Farm. Murton, a trained penologist, is assistant superintendent in charge of Tucker.

Asked whether he was definitely eliminating Murton from the job at Cummins, he said, "No sir."

Dahlstedt, contacted at his home, said he hadn't talked with the governor or his aides about the matter. He refused to say whether he would be interested in the job.

Dahlstedt said he had worked seven years with Nebraska's state training school system, and that he was associated with federal training programs for two years before joining the Henderson faculty in 1955.

He received his doctorate from the University of Nebraska in 1953 after writing a dissertation on mid-western prison systems. Rockefeller said that since Bishop's recommendation wasn't effective until Dec. 31, the Penitentiary Board would have time to look for a successor. He said he hoped the board would accept recommendations from various penal consultants.

The governor said he thought Bishop, who submitted his resignation Tuesday, had been caught between factions pushing for prison reform and others who were more interested in maintaining the prison farm as a money-making operation.

"There is no question in my mind that he's been under fire, under pressure," Rockefeller said.

He said he wanted to make it clear that Bishop would have the support of his office and all other state agencies during the transitional period between his resignation and the time he is replaced.

There has been a great deal of public apprehension about escapes at Cummins lately, the governor said, adding that he wanted to do "everything to protect the integrity of the operation at Cummins and the safety of the people in the area."

State Police Director Lynn A. Davis will be on top of anything that might develop at the prison, the governor said.

Rockefeller said he didn't anticipate any trouble, but that he wasn't overlooking the fact that something could develop in view of the change in personnel.

On another matter, the governor said he couldn't exonerate Bishop's prison administration from all blame in a report issued Tuesday by Dr. Edwin N. Barron Jr. of Little Rock, the new state prison physician.

Barron revealed that trusties operating a haphazard medical program had been selling state-purchased narcotics and other drugs to inmates. He also disclosed instances of filth and unsanitary conditions at the prison hospital.

Barron said prison officials

Two Schools Boycott AEA Meeting

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — At least two Arkansas schools were boycotting the Arkansas Education Association's convention today in Little Rock because of disagreement over policies.

Two other schools from Washington County said they could not be represented at the convention.

School Supt. E. P. Rothrock of Lincoln (Washington County) said, "We're just not turning out." Rothrock said the teachers had voted unanimously not to attend the convention.

Rothrock said he didn't agree with the AEA's stand on pay raises for teachers and he criticized the organization for "changing the position in mid-stream."

The AEA at first supported a formula method of raising teacher salaries whereby salaries would be increased on an average of $500 a year. The AEA later changed its support to the flat $500 a year method, which was passed by the 1967 legislature and signed by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller. Rothrock said he preferred the formula method.

Winslow, Greenland and Farmington were the other schools not represented today.

Greenland Supt. Bill E. Watson said the faculty had voted and unanimously decided not to attend because they did not approve of some of the AEA policies.

Paul Kennedy, principal at Winslow, said there was no reason why Winslow teachers decided not to attend. "I have no comments," Kennedy said when asked by the schools were open.

Farmington school Supt. George Ledbetter said it was a matter of teacher choice and they were not boycotting the meeting.

J. R. Kennan, Washington County supervisor of education and superintendent of Winslow schools, said the Winslow district closed down schools today anyway although the faculty was on hand to teach. Schools throughout the state closed for the AEA meeting.

Kennan said there was no concerted effort on the part of any teacher's organization in the county to boycott the AEA convention.

Highlights of LBJ's Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of President Johnson's news conference Wednesday:

Congress — The President said the inactivity of Congress is tying up progress on many fronts. He cited his tax increase proposal as particularly vital to the nation and denounced those falling "to stand up and take the action that responsibility requires." The tax measure currently is bottled up in the House Ways and Means Committee.

ment should be given time to show what it can do, Johnson said. "They have come a long way from the time we met in Honolulu to the time they elected their president, in something over 13 months."

The bombing of North Vietnam could halt at any time "if they will talk promptly, productively, and not take advantage of us," he said.

War Critics — Antiwar demonstrators and other critics should think before they speak, offering criticism only if what they are "about to say is going to make a contribution to solving the problem," Johnson said.

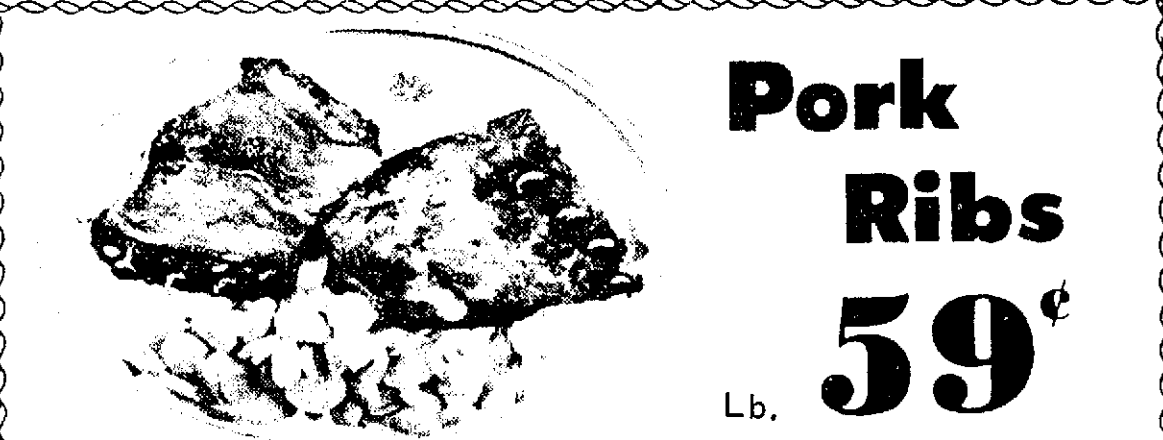

Domestic Programs — He termed cuts by Congress in programs such as model cities and rent subsidies as "serious" and "drastic." "That is not the way to meet the problem" posed by big-city rioting, he said.

Spending Cuts — He expects Congress to cut the administration's appropriations requests by $4 to $5 billion. "I will sign those bills they send me, although I think some of them are close ones," he said.

Whatever else you say about him, your dreamy colleague always puts in a full daze work.

Trouble in Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — King Mohammed Zahir announced Wednesday the appointment of Nur Ahmad Elmadadi to form a new Cabinet. Elmadadi, 46, was foreign minister and deputy premier in the government of Mohammad Hashim Maymawdwal, who resigned last month for health reasons.

Local Leaders Discuss Plans

Democrats at Odds Over Financing

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Caping years of behind-the-scenes friction, House Democrats have decided to sever major financial ties with the Democratic National Committee and set up a separate committee to solicit funds for 1968 congressional elections.
This means Democrats will mount two separate national fund-raising drives for next year's elections—one to finance President Johnson's expected re-election bid and the other in behalf of congressional candidates.
The new group, to be known as the Democratic Congressional Finance Committee, will operate year-round and seek funds nationwide, especially from individuals and groups with what one source called "a peculiar interest" in Congress.
The decision to establish the new committee, The Associated Press learned, was made last month in a closed meeting of the House Democratic Campaign Committee and discussed in a later session with national committee officials.
Although some congressmen reportedly plan to shun identification with Johnson in next year's campaign, officials of the White House-controlled national committee denied the new development indicates deteriorating relations between Capitol Hill and the White House.
"It just indicates a fact of life," said John Criswell, the na-

Poachers Caught Violet-Handed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lobster poachers are being caught violet-handed.
State fish and game agents have begun coating some lobster traps with paste that glows under ultraviolet light.
Lobster fishermen have complained that they're losing a substantial amount of their catch to raids by skin divers and others.
Agents say they have caught two poachers who were betrayed by a violet glow on hands and clothing.

national committee's acting treasurer. "The House Democrats need to be better financed and this is just a way to do it."

Democratic National Chairman John Bailey said the decision of House Democrats means only that "they decided they would raise their own money."

About eight years ago, the national committee and the House and Senate campaign committees agreed the national committee would handle all fund-raising.

Under the arrangement, the national committee was to supply each congressional committee with $10,000 a month operating cash, plus lump sum payments totaling more than a half-million dollars a year to be distributed to candidates.

But some congressmen grumbled that the promised aid failed to materialize fully. This, one said, "left a lot of people on the Hill unhappy."

National committee officials were in turn irked by the way the congressional committees divided funds among the candidates.

Local leaders are shown discussing plans recently for an Educational Activity November 9, during Consumer Education Week. Needs and problems were considered in planning content of activity.

Consumers in the Hempstead County area will have an opportunity to learn the TRUTH about pots and pans. Special promotion is planned by the different organizations in Hempstead County to reach ALL homemakers with information about this activity to be held at the District Livestock Show Coliseum Thursday, November 9, from 1:00 till 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. till 9 p.m.

Elizabeth Ellis, Extension Home Management Specialist, is shown discussing with leaders the concern that the homemaker be better informed so she can best select, use, and care for utensils.

Hubert Tours Malaysia in Hot Sun

By MYRON BELKIND
Associated Press Writer
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey took an architectural tour in the hot Malaysian sun today, looking at mosques and monuments and a Parliament tower he liked so much that he said: "I hope my government officers see that because they believe in building squares."

Humphrey, here for three days on a swing through Southeast Asia, guided his tour off its itinerary to go inside the modern, 18-story tower. He sat down in the Parliament speaker's chair, praised the acoustics, and wished they could be as good in some Washington buildings.

Local dealers are cooperating with local leaders in providing display of various types of utensils which the specialist will use in discussing advantages and disadvantages.

Dolores McBride, Extension Home Economist, says there will be nothing to buy but this activity will be an educational meeting to better inform consumers with the truth about utensils. Miss McBride says homemakers may "come as they are" and considers this an opportunity for homemakers to get answers to many questions and doubts in selecting, using and caring for utensils.
